ENTERTAINED FRIDAY EVENING
The Jones Home the Scene of a Pleasant Social Gathering.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Jones entertained a large number of neighbors and friends at their home on Friday evening. The party was a most enjoyable feature of the evening was an elaborate supper served at midnight which was fully appreciated and done full justice to by all.

A pleasant evening. That this was done can be testified by all who were so fortunate as to be present. The early part of the evening was devoted to cards and cigars for the masculine guests, while the ladies played other games and entertained themselves as only ladies can. At ten o'clock the hall was cleared for dancing and to music supplied by Sam Greig and Guy Nichols, the light fantastic toe was tripped until a late hour. Not the least enjoyable feature of the evening was an elaborate supper served at midnight which was fully appreciated and done full justice to by all.

Among those present were the following named: Mr. and Mrs. Byron Redden, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Frankenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Dickinson, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Finch; Mr. and Mrs. John Wolff, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Frankenberg; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gustafson; Mrs. C. M. Mullen, Mrs. Julia Calloun, Misses Mabel Anderson, Nellie Murphy, Maud Wilson, Marie Stewart, Josie Frankenberg, Lulu Vandervalk, and Edith Mullen. Messrs. W. H. Wolff, John Mullen, Fred Appelby, Andrace Japson, Orrin Standage, W. H. Wilbur, J. F. Peck and F. W. Griffin.

We need money and you need the goods. Great bargains at Lukin's cash store. Big sale now on.

RECEPTION AND BANQUET
The Beckas and their friends gave a reception and banquet in the Old Fellows' hall Friday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Merton Stewart. It was a very pleasant affair and attended by a large number of friends of the young couple. The evening was spent with music, games and a sumptuous turkey dinner that accorded the attention of the guests for some time, was served.

If the party who picked up a ladies fur scarf in front of the Hayden ranch Christmas day will leave same at Harmer's drug store, a suitable reward will be paid.

HERE FROM THE NORTH
L. D. Yeager and family arrived here yesterday from the northern part of the territory and will be here for a few days. Mr. Yeager will return north about the first of the year. He says that sheep in his section of the territory are in good shape but, like other shepherds, he is watching the weather closely and hoping that there will be an abundance of rain and that part of it will come soon. Unless there is rain soon, the outlook will be anything but encouraging.

See our big display ad on this page.

SHIPS IN A DOG
O. C. Watson yesterday received from California another Russian wolfhound. This makes his pack number five and though the coyotes and wild cats of that locality have been pretty well thinned out by his dogs, he is in hope that with this new addition he will be able to get a few more.

You can get oranges at Easterwood's today at five and ten cents per dozen.

LOOK OUT FOR RAIN
Tom Goodwin was sounded on the subject of rain yesterday. It is the first time Mr. Goodwin has expressed an opinion on the weather for some time past and after so long a rest, he should be in good condition to give a straight tip. He says there will be rain before tonight and the populace can therefore govern itself accordingly.

CATTLE SHIPMENT
W. E. Hitchcock of San Bernardino, Cal., will ship out a couple of cars of cattle tonight that he purchased from Thomas Dennis. This is the winter there has not been much doing in the way of California shipments. Cattlemen in the valley are holding their cattle for a little better figure than buyers have yet offered.

Don't fail to hear the jolly Della Pringle company either this afternoon or tonight.

A ROBBERY

A man by the name of J. B. Anderson complained to Marshal Burton yesterday of having been sandbagged and robbed. Upon investigation it was learned that the young fellow himself had caused trouble and had gone outside and shot in the road near where he had quarreled with the manager, who at the shot went outside and broke a billiard cue over the offender's head. Yesterday morning Anderson was arrested and relieved of his fire arm and given $25 or 25 days.

ROCKEFELLER-CARNEGIE FIGHT FOR SUPREMACY

Each Apparently Has Ambition to Be World's Greatest Giver—A Theatrical Black Hand—New York Woman Presents Bill for Ninety-three Septillions.

New York, Dec. 24.—(Special Correspondence of The Republican).—What promises to be a highly interesting and, from the public's standpoint of view, a highly profitable "war" between the country's two most prominent multi-millionaires is that apparently being waged between Carnegie and Rockefeller for leadership in the field of philanthropy. While there is no avowed rivalry between them in this respect, it is noteworthy that directly following the announcement of Mr. Rockefeller's gift of $2,000,000 to the Institute for Medical Research which bears his name, Mr. Carnegie came to bat with a $2,000,000 addition to the Carnegie Institution in Washington. According to the records so far as they have been made public, the great steel master has given $136,329,950 to the various objects of his beneficence while the oil king has parted with $106,355,960 for philanthropic purposes. This leaves Mr. Carnegie with a lead of a trifling $29,973,990. With the resources of Mr. Rockefeller, however, this handicap is by no means insuperable, as is indicated by his single gift of $22,000,000 to the general education board. Ordinarily the public is more likely to suffer than to profit by a contest between men of great wealth, but there seems to be no reason why it should not sit back and applaud a race for supremacy between the world's two greatest givers.

Theatrical reputations made or unmade to order, might well be the motto of the terrorist organization operating in theatrical and operatic circles, whose existence has just been brought to light. New York has long been known as the home of various gangs, American and foreign. The Black Hand has flourished here, the Hunchakists have had various murders attributed to them, and Chinese secret societies have from time to time turned the city's Chinatown into a battle ground. One and all, however, in their various fields of activity, they have resorted to force. The new society does nothing of the sort. It is organized to make money by blackmailing theatrical and operatic stars of new discovery, and its methods as now brought to light are direct and peaceful, as well as apparently effective in many instances. When a new operatic star has been about to make the initial appearance on which so much depends a member of the organization would approach him or her, as the case might be, and demand a certain sum of money. In the event of its being paid, tremendous applause would be guaranteed for the first appearance. But if the demand were refused, the star was told that he would be hissed and ruined. Most of the prominent singers coming from foreign countries where a hissing on the first appearance does mean a ruined reputation, promptly paid. At last, however, one braver than the most rebelled, exposed the plot, and so brought to light the most ingenious system of blackmailing discovered in New York in many years.

The biggest bill which the world has ever known or is likely to know is one held by a New York woman against the English government. Compared to its incredible total, the national debt becomes but a drop in the bucket, and all the wealth of the richest man in the world would not pay the interest on it for a week. Its total as set forth in the latest accounting and demand for payment is $92,729,400,628,100,000,000,000,000 or more than ninety-three septillions of American money. To pay it would ruin Great Britain, and in fact if it should be paid the whole British empire would become the private property of Miss Eustaphie, the claimant, who could then without missing it present the British Isle to Father Knickerbocker as a playground. As a matter of fact there is not money enough in the whole world to settle this obligation, and it therefore has a very slim chance of being paid. Most of the amount is interest on the claim which is an inherited one and dates back nearly seven hundred years. During the hundred year war between England and France the Italian banking house of the Peruzzi, from whom the present holder of the claim is descended, financed the campaigns of King Edward III. For the money thus advanced a bill has been presented to the British government every ten years, and it is largely the interest which has been piling up enormously during seven centuries, which now gives the account its unbelievable total. Curiously enough the bill has never been repudiated. It has simply been "neglected." But whether or not it is valid, it certainly is not collectable for the simple reason that there is not enough money in existence to pay it. A settlement on Brooklyn is apparently more widely awake to existing conditions and needs in connection with matters financial than its reputation might suggest. As a result of the recent panic the Brooklyn grand jury has handed down the strongest general indictment in many moons, directed against "directors who do not direct." Being a member of the board of a bank or trust company ought to be a real job, it was held, and the grand jury scored unmercifully the practice which it found to prevail among certain institutions of electing to their boards directors of excellent name and repute but of striking carelessness and neglect, so far as their duties were concerned. Already, as a result of the knowledge gained from recent happenings the tendency of the public has been to withhold business from institutions whose directors have been dilatory in their duties and to give it to others whose boards have been constantly "on the job." The bankers themselves have taken up the subject and many institutions are following the lead of the Bankers' Trust company, which includes in its directors representatives of the leading banking institutions of the city in demanding frequent directors' meetings and careful attention to the details of business on the part of members of the boards. New York, now that it is undertaking to profit by its recent painful experience, seems to be realizing that if all trust companies in the greater city had insisted on equal attention from their directors, circumstances would not have compelled the grand jury to make its drastic presentment.
